Theme: English Studies during pandemic times

Deadline: 31.05.2022

The COVID-19 pandemic, as an unprecedented global phenomenon, has deeply affected higher education and academia. It has also forced us to reconsider the place of the Humanities during periods of severe economic and social crisis.

This special issue invites papers on the impact of the current pandemic on topics within the field of English Studies. Papers might consider any aspect of the interplay of language/linguistics, literature and culture and the pandemic.

All contributions submitted to The ESSE Messenger should observe the Editorial code (<https://essenglish.org/messenger/code/>) and the Stylesheet (<https://essenglish.org/messenger/stylesheet/>).
